Explicit sex scenes at the G-rated Living Desert? It was precisely that when the auxiliary presented Dr. Michael Dee, famed animal authority from the L.A. Zoo, showing and telling all about five species of rhinoceros. "Next time, we put up an 18 and older only sign," quipped president Barbara Bail to the fascinated mixed group that stayed on for refreshments and the introduction of new officers.

Floretta Lauber, one time mayor of Arcadia, announced as the new auxiliary president, was installed last night at a Western party held by the group at the Living Desert. L.D. trustee chair, Sherman Smith, handled the swearing-in, which also included new officers Dorothy Phelps, Barbara Filiatreux, Jean Burgner, Terry Hudson, Mona Livingstone, Elinor Neal and Jane Roberts. Western music, cocktails, Ed Benson's chili, a big raffle and a big hand for two-term former president, Barbara Vail, were highlights enjoyed by a large group of Living Desert supporters.

Her Honor Floretta Lauber is also a big wheel with the Palm Desert Woman's Club, chairing an afternoon tea for some 135 members at Bermuda Dunes. Pondering the calories of strawberries dipped in white chocolate over the pleasures of petit fours, a voice seemed to say, "Frankly, my dears, I don't give a damn."

After all, it was Clark Gable's house — one that he had shared with Kathleen Spreckles Gable, his last wife. The charming '50s ranch house has been owned for some time by Irma Jury, who has preserved much of the furniture and memorabilia of the former owners. Enjoying the nostalgia were president Dorothy Kandarian, Rita Silver, Ginnie De Fever, Mary Valdora, Flo and Thomasina Griggs and others who well remember Gable as King — long before one Elvis inherited the title.

But all is not over for Floretta Lauber — she'll be handling details this Saturday when the Desert 4 Republicans host their annual cocktail party at Casa Dorado in Indian Wells. Price $7 — reservations 340-2620.

Fran Benes' column appears Tuesdays and Thursdays in The Desert Sun.

Local athletic club enjoys Race Day

Members and friends of the Santa Anita Athletic Club of Arcadia, which originated as an equestrian group, spent a Day at the Races for luncheon and a bit of racehorse choosing on Jan. 3 at Santa Anita Race Track.

According to Floretta Lauber, Race Day chairwoman, the club was founded as an offshoot of the Arcadia Woman's Club more than 50 years ago, with the purpose of exercise, companionship and socializing.

The group had its first Race Day five years ago when it celebrated its Golden Anniversary, and has continued as an annual event since that time. Hazel Morris is club president.

Athletic Club attends races

For an organization that originated as an equestrian group, a Day at the Races is a natural for the Santa Anita Athletic Club, explains Floretta Lauber, who coordinated a recent race-day event at Santa Anita Park.

She goes on to explain that the equestrian enthusiasts began as an offshoot of the Arcadia Woman's Club over 50 years ago.

To celebrate their golden anniversary, the group held its first Day at the Races five years ago, and it was so well received that it has become an annual event, adds the chairman.

Buddy Rogers: Someone to Count On Wednesday evening, when all the pretty people were at the Shrine Auditorium paying homage to Oscar, the motion picture industry totem, another group of people was at a party at the place where it all began. It was in the Blossom Room of the Roosevelt Hotel on Hollywood Boulevard that the first Academy Awards ceremony was held in 1928. The movie named best picture that long-ago year was "Wings," and one of its stars was Charles (Buddy) Rogers.

Rogers was back in the Blossom Room on Wednesday night as the guest of honor of the Visiting Nurse Assn. of Los Angeles at the organization's 50th birthday ball.

The VNA of Los Angeles, Pasadena and the San Fernando Valley is one of those solid organizations I don't think much about. It's like the American Heart Assn. or 50 other organizations I take for granted. Most [illegible]. You know they're out there doing great, [illegible] things and isn't that wonderful? But unless [illegible]rs start to crumble off your life and you need [illegible]ups like the VNA aren't at the top of your [illegible]y day.

[illegible]s been there for us since 1939 when some [illegible] volunteers and some health professionals [illegible]t there was a need for home care without [illegible]t of the person's ability to pay.

[illegible]car, staff members made 200,000 visits to [illegible] people. They manage all this with the help of [illegible]care, Medi-Cal and private insurance companies. [illegible]y also depend on private fund-raising where they [illegible]e Los Angeles citizens to put a little something on [illegible]plate.

[illegible]t's what the Oscar night ball was, a fund-raiser so that the VNA could continue to bring people nursing, therapy, social services (they help with Social Security forms, for instance) hospice care, intravenous therapy and maternal and newborn care so that people can be at home where they get well quicker. Visiting nurses also consult with patients on diets and medicine and provide medical supplies.

The money raised last week is ticketed for a new program called I COUNT TOO. It's for adolescents who are watching a parent die from a disastrous illness. At a time like that, all of the attention and energy of family and friends are focused on the ill person, and the kid may be told to do his homework, visit a friend, play with the dog, mow the lawn, anything but get in the way.

In I COUNT TOO, nurses and social workers meet with the young people and they talk about their problems, mainly the biggest, "How come me?"

The kids support each other so no one ever feels he is going through this dark woods all alone. Finally and always, they do do it alone, but the support offered to them, open-handedly, no strings, is of inestimable worth.

They find that the sadness, insecurity and worry are shared with other young people. The program takes them through the last awful days, the funeral, the mourning and the fact that their lives are torn up like bits of paper. It is a great help to kids in a black time.

My mother died of cancer when I was 18, and when the ambulance came to pick her up to take her to the hospital for what we all knew would be her last surgery, Daddy, a lawyer, was in a trial, and I was alone. When the ambulance drove away from the house, I fell to the living room floor with my face in the carpet and cried. Our schnauzer, a wise dog, came over and licked my tears and I knew I had to stop because I was worrying my best friend. I remember well saying to Monks, "Well, this isn't getting anything done and won't change anything and self-pity is tacky. Let's go peel the potatoes." And we did.

Mama had always said that we don't weep for the dead. We weep for ourselves and the terrible hollowness inside us. Besides, I had to take care of Daddy and get dinner ready and go to the theater and do my show.

When Mama died, I remember following the casket down the center aisle of St. Victor's with Daddy and seeing my friends out of the corner of my eye. I felt as if I were odd, strange, out of step. My mother had died, which made me different.

But I was 18 and I still had Daddy and Monks. A lot of younger kids are losing the only parent they have and have no idea where they will even live and take their stuff. Can they keep their dog, wherever they have to go?

These are some of the tearing problems helped by the adults who run I COUNT TOO. And this is just one of the programs financed by the VNA and its friends.

I know all the VNA guests had a wonderful time at their Oscar night ball, and some kids will have a little gentler time because a wise and trained grown-up says just the right thing.

It's a wonderful project. I would like to tell the youngsters facing this that nothing that happens is their fault and that although it won't go away, it will get better.

Alpha supports home health care through foundation

Members and guests of Alpha Auxiliary gathered at the home of Ruth Gilb last week for a membership tea and the celebration of the auxiliary's new affiliation with Methodist Hospital Foundation in support of Arcadia Home Nursing and Health Services.

With a beginning that goes back to Nov. 1980, Alpha Auxiliary was the first such support group for the Visiting Nurses Association. Floretta Lauber was charter president of the group which was dedicated to fund raising for home health care for patients who could not afford needed services.

Among the charter members who are still involved with the auxiliary, in addition to Lauber, are Dorothy Dowd, Carol Libby and Gilb.

As VNA changed and its base moved further away from Arcadia, the auxiliary searched for an avenue to provide continuity of care for local discharged patients and found what it was looking for in Arcadia Home Nursing and Health Services, which has made some 1700 home visits during each of the last two months.

Intermittent skilled services, including nursing, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy, medical-social services as well as home health aid for personal care are the services offered, according to Julie Packer, Arcadia branch manager of clinical services.

"Alpha is a group tending to make a difference in the quality of lives in their own community," explained Pat Bray, executive director of Home Nursing and Health Services.

Members of Alpha Auxiliary meet four times each year, support a May fund-raiser and host a Christmas party. For membership information contact Jane Moline at 355-0570.

At Indian Wells club

At Indian Wells the pale faces were flushed, the braves nowhere to be found and the Great Spirit's name frequently invoked. The heat wave was the first to be encountered in 29 years of I.W. Country Club's Mini Pow-wows, the Auxiliary's annual member-guest tribal gathering. To their credit, none of the 174 players dropped out and all had war whoops and energy to spare at the awards luncheon held at the gaily decorated clubhouse.

Zella Nemer, chair, gathered the group for get-acquainted partying at Alice Bullard's fairway home before they split up into four flights. Aiding her throughout the following three days were such stalwarts as auxiliary president Wyn Fessendon, Lou Strothers, Tess Tumpane, Judy Mohler, Joyce Barker, Betty Mercier, Sally Werring, Laura Picking and Marilyn Smith. Dee Jackson and Jean Winsor provided firewater and snacks out on the hunting grounds.

Heavy metal prizes and one large trophy were Zella's reward to those who prevailed. Having their names engraved on the trophy were overall gross and net winners — Virgie Burger and Pat Hooper of Bermuda Dunes (gross) and Mary Andrews and partner Darlene Lee of La Quinta. Other big wins went to the teams of Pat Weaver and Liz Lett of Desert Island; Jane Sherwood and Mary Alice Monroe of La Quinta; Sally Werring and Barbara Chambers of The Springs; Bel Ritchie and Mary Ann Berry of Shadow Mountain; Tess Tumpane and Helen Williams of Benardo Heights; and, of course, many others.

Everyone won a tee prize, a compliment from Wyn Fessendon and a glass of bubbly from Maureen Garrett who fired off a hole-in-one during the heated tournament.

Explicit sex scenes at the G-rated Living Desert? It was precisely that when the auxiliary presented Dr. Michael Dee, famed animal authority from the L.A. Zoo, showing and telling all about five species of rhinoceros. "Next time, we put up an 18 and older only sign," quipped president Barbara Bail to the fascinated mixed group that stayed on for refreshments and the introduction of new officers.

Floretta Lauber, one time mayor of Arcadia, announced as the new auxiliary president, was installed last night at a Western party held by the group at the Living Desert. L.D. trustee chair, Sherman Smith, handled the swearing-in, which also included new officers Dorothy Phelps, Barbara Filiatreux, Jean Burgner, Terry Hudson, Mona Livingstone, Elinor Neal and Jane Roberts. Western music, cocktails, Ed Benson's chili, a big raffle and a big hand for two-term former president, Barbara Vail, were highlights enjoyed by a large group of Living Desert supporters.

VISITING NURSE ASSOCIATION
OF Pasadena and San Gabriel Valley

August 21, 1991

Dear Alpha Auxiliary Members:

It is with great pleasure that I officially announce that Alpha members voted unanimously to discontinue our affiliation with the Los Angeles Visiting Nurse Association, and affliate our auxiliary with the Visiting Nurse Association of Arcadia Methodist Hospital. For the past two years, we have enjoyed our affiliation with LA VNA, getting to know and working with President Sharon Grigsby, and Esther Kenyon and Michelle Clark, and we will truly miss them. This decision was only made after much research, questioning and discussion by all our members; but the sentiment was to channel our funds to the people within our community through Methodist Hospital.

There will be announcements about our new Auxiliary in the newspapers early in October, and we can now go forward with our plans for our next fundraiser. CAROLYN GARTON, the brunch chairman, will be calling on you, so please give her your full support. We need your commitment for a successful event in our first year with Arcadia VNA. I know that we are going to have a great New Year!

I am delighted to announce that Floretta Lauber has accepted the Board position of Parliamentarian. It will be necessary to establish new by-laws, and she will be a great asset for us in our first year with Arcadia VNA. Welcome Floretta!

Our general membership meeting will be held on September 30 at the lovely home of Mickey Harbur. Please be there! We will be finalizing our plans for our MEMBERSHIP TEA on October 30 at the beautiful home of Ruth Gilb. REMINDER: Every member is to bring ONE guest, and if possible TWO guests, to the tea for potential membership in the Alpha Auxiliary.

See you on the 30th of September at 11:00 A.M.

I THANK EACH AND EVERYONE. IT WAS A DIFFICULT DECISION, BUT, I THINK, THE RIGHT ONE!

Sincerely

Fran Z. Atwood

Inspection Day emphasizes riding rules

By Shella Thompson
Staff Writer

It wasn't a day for "wheelies" or racing, at least, not when anyone was looking. Rather, it was a day for safety, on bicycles, that is.

Visiting Nurses Association spring brunch/auction is a hit

By Sheila Thompson
Staff Writer

On a sunny spring morning, members of Alpha Auxiliary of the Visiting Nurse Association of Los Angeles gathered with friends, supporters and local dignitaries for the organization's annual Springtime Brunch and Auction in the Sunset Room of Santa Anita Golf Clubhouse in Arcadia. The auxiliary raised $8,000 for the VNA to be used for home health care for area needy.

The 11-year-old organization was founded as the first auxiliary to the VNA with the purpose of raising funds to help in home health care for those unable to pay or partially pay for care of the ill at home, thus sparing extensive hospital costs. The VNA also works closely with Hospice of Pasadena in the home care of terminally ill patients in the west San Gabriel Valley.

Carol Libby, president of the auxiliary, greeted more than 150 guests and members during the social hour, and introduced Sharon Grigsby, president of VNA of Los Angeles and of the VNA of America.

Inside the Sunset Room, tables were covered with pale peach cloths, with centerpieces of different floral arrangements of spring flowers at each table, donated by area florists.

During and following a chicken crepe brunch, door and drawing prize winners were announced.

Then Ron Hutson, who has acted as auctioneer for several years, began the auction for a large variety of prizes donated by local merchants and supporters. Among the auction items were handmade children's quilts, a Chinese vase, bed-and-breakfast overnight stays, jewelry and tickets to Dodger and Angel games and Oak Tree races at Santa Anita. A silent auction for seven valuable items also was held.

Among those present were several past presidents of the auxiliary, including Jean Hoard, Mickey Harbur, Jean Cope and Eloise Ward.

Carol Libby organized the event with Carolyn Garton, chairwoman; Beth Constanza, auction; Karen Benvenuto, reservations; Mary Poehler, door prizes; and Fran Zonver, decorations.

Arcadia Home Nursing and Health Services provides this help for the people of Arcadia and surrounding communities.

We are most grateful to all of you gathered here today in your generous support in our efforts to provide home health care to those in need in our community.

Fran Atwood, President
Alpha Auxiliary

It is our great pleasure to welcome and congratulate Alpha Auxiliary on your efforts to raise funds for home care for needy patients in the Arcadia area. Our affiliation with you indicates a renewal of commitment in home nursing services that will benefit those in need in our community.

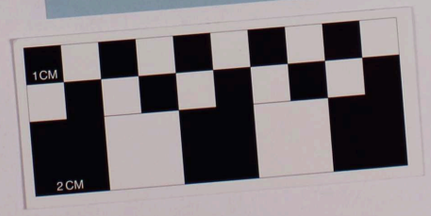
MEDICAL SOCIAL SERVICE

A patient in the home often has many problems which relate not only to him but to family members. These may involve finances, household chores, companionship and housing itself.

Many patients and their families are not aware of all community and governmental resources available to improve the situation. This is where the medical social worker comes in. She matches the need to the resource and follows the case through to the solution.

The emotional impact of an accident or an illness can be as great as the physical toll. The patient recuperating at home usually has too much time to brood about his misfortune. The medical social worker is a good listener who helps the patient discard his negative feelings in favor of a positive attitude toward his recovery.



HOME HEALTH AIDES SERVICE

Certified by the State of California, the home health aide works closely under the registered nurse's direction during convalescence of the ill or injured patient. These services include bathing, grooming, prescribed exercises and personal hygiene.

The person who benefits from the care of a home health aide is usually bedridden or confined to a wheelchair, unable to manage alone and with no one available to assist with these functions.

HOMEMAKER SERVICE

In order to remain at home, the convalescent or elderly often need the services of a qualified homemaker. Many times a few hours of assistance each week makes the difference between enabling a person to remain at home safely or not.

Homemakers handle personal hygiene needs, planning, shopping for and preparing simple meals, light laundry and cleaning as well as infant and child care.

Charges are based on a minimum of two hours a visit.

Homemakers are not at this time covered by Medicare or Medi-Cal.

ONCOLOGY PROGRAM

Cancer patients have special needs since treatment and side effects of medication and radiation therapy are unique.

A special nursing program has been developed for these patients and their families.All of the VNA professionals are available for cancer care in the home. In addition nurses have been trained to administer chemotherapeutic medications enabling the patient to stay in the home for as long as possible.

These nurses can monitor the effect of these medications. Sensitive to patients' discomfort, they are trained to handle special oncology problems of pain and hair loss, as well as emotional aspects of terminal illness.

A close line of communication among the physician, the nurse and patient is maintained at all times. The professionals work closely with the patient and his family to provide a basis of close interpersonal relationships.

The oncology nurse meets with the medical or professional advisory board every six months to review and update the oncology program.

HOSPICE CARE

Hospice care is a program which provides palliative support for terminally ill patients and their families. These are patients who choose to remain at home after all medical treatments and rehabilitative efforts have been exhausted. Under this care medical treatments that are focused on cure, are no longer administered.

The physician is still a key person as he prescribes pain medication, diet, activity level, etc.

When indicated, assistance and consultation are available to the patient and the patient's family around the clock. The entire family is considered the unit of care under this program which extends through the period of bereavement.

STROKE RESOCIALIZATION PROGRAM

This program, under the aegis of the VNA since 1973, provides a bridge between patients and their community. Meetings are held weekly at four locations which are suitable for wheel chairs.

At no cost to patients this program provides opportunities to share experiences, make new friends and regain self confidence and self respect.

Stroke centers are staffed by professionals and specially trained volunteers. Family members are encouraged to participate. This is an open-end program.

Persons interested in participating in the Stroke Resocialization Program should call the office of the Visiting Nurse Association prior to attending.

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY

The goal of the occupational therapist is to assist the individual to learn to function in his home within his limitation.

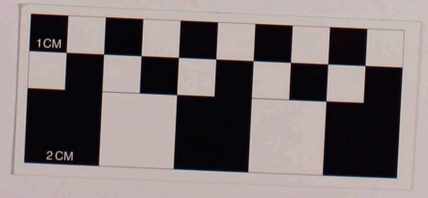
The occupational therapist utilizes various modes of treatment to improve arm-hand functions directed toward improving a person's ability to perform dressing, bathing, grooming, feeding and household chores.

Self-help devices are often recommended to make it easier to perform activities of daily living.

PHYSICAL THERAPY

Under a physican's prescription, these professionals help restore function and strength as well as relieve possible pain with special exercises and body mechanics. They assist in adaptation to permanent disability.

Therapists work primarily with "gross motor" functions such as walking, getting in and out of beds and chairs and movements where balance is required.



REGISTERED NURSING SERVICE

All health care is prescribed by the patient's private physician. Primary goal of the VNA registered nurse is to teach patients to take care of themselves, if at all possible. She coordinates all services rendered through the agency with that provided by the physician and other facilities.

The VNA registered nurse is qualified to administer such services as injections, changing of surgical dressings, catheter care, colostomy care and mother and new baby care.

NUTRITIONAL CONSULTANT

Special diets are almost always an integral part of a convalescence or regimen for a chronic illness. The VNA nutritional consultant is skilled in creating special diets to the physicians's orders. The diet is explained to the patient and to whoever prepares the patient's meals. Menus are suggested that conform to special medical requirements as well as to the patient's taste or ethnic preferences. The nutritionist suggests where special diet groceries may be obtained and explains how to prepare items that may be new to the patient and his family.

ALPHA AUXILIARY is authorized as a volunteer service and fund raising entity under the auspices of the Methodist Hospital Foundation. The Monies raised by Alpha Auxiliary go to Methodist Hospital patients who have financial need and who require follow-up home care.

Methodist Hospital Foundation

in support of

Home Nursing & Health Services

MEMBERSHIP INFORMATION

This brochure is designed to answer questions about the Alpha Auxiliary and membership in the organization.

The ALPHA AUXILIARY was chartered in 1981 by a small group of volunteer women dedicated to providing support for those who need financial assistance for home care following hospitalization.

This was the first organization of its kind established in the state of California, hence the name "Alpha", or the beginning.

The organization holds only one fundraiser per year, in the month of May. Throughout the year the goal is to make the "Marvelous May Brunch" a financial success. This is accomplished by the sale of Chance Tickets, auction items, and brunch attendance. Social events for members include a traditional Christmas party and a festive membership installation tea in June.

MEMBERS ARE EXPECTED TO:

1. Attend an orientation meeting in order to develop an understanding of the program.

2. Give a minimum of 12 hours of service each year. Credit is given for attending meetings, opening one's home for use as a meeting place, assisting and furnishing food for luncheon meetings and participating in the fundraising events.

3. Support Alpha financially by:
(1) paying annual dues of twenty-five dollars,
2) purchasing one brunch ticket,
(3) donating auction items or contributing thirty-five dollars,
(4) selling tickets to the annual brunch.

4. To serve on committees when requested by the president.

5. Attend general meetings which are held at least four times each year. The purpose of these meetings is for transacting business matters and making plans for the brunch.

Arcadia residents form new auxiliary

A group of Arcadia residents formed an ad hoc committee, headed by Carol Libby, in November, 1980, as a prelude to forming a local auxiliary for the Visiting Nurse Association of Pasadena and San Gabriel Valley (VNA).

Subsequent meetings took place in February and May, 1981, and members serving on this committee include: Roni Eventov, Floretta K. Lauber, Jane R. Shepherd, Ruth Gilb, Dorothy K. Dowd, Jean Cope, Marilyn Sargis, Sue Newton, Jill Beley, Carolyn Stuart, Marilyn L. Daleo and Eleanor Johnson.

Alicia Quiroz, executive director, and Bernard Herman, chairman of the board of the VNA, have acted as laisons and were instrumental in the ad hoc committee forming an auxiliary in May after voting on by-laws and officers.

The VNA is a non-profit agency which serves 15 communities in the San Gabriel Valley. It provides professional nursing care and other therapeutic services to the sick in their homes under the medical direction of the patient's physician.

Auxiliary members are currently planning a gourmet brunch scheduled on Sunday, June 28, from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the home of Roni Eventov, 55 Woodland Lane, Arcadia.

For further information, call the VNA office at 795-7704.

It's 'Pretty' atop weekly box office

The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD — "Pretty Woman" was No. 1 for the third consecutive weekend in the national box-office tally, entering the $100 million club along with Oscar-winning "Driving Miss Daisy."

"Pretty Woman" earned almost $7.6 million last weekend, followed by "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles" with $3.7 million and "Tales from the Darkside" in third place with $2.9 million.

May is considered one of the flattest times of the year in the movie business, with weekends filled with high school proms, graduation parties and commencements.

Disney's Touchstone Pictures said "Pretty Woman" had reached the $100 million level as quickly as "Three Men and a Baby," in just 52 days of domestic release.

It took longer for "Driving Miss Daisy" to make the grade, 22 weeks into release. The movie got a boost when it won best picture and best actress Oscars at the Academy Awards in March.

'Turtles' remain No. 2

Here are the top movie ticket sales for Friday through Sunday as tallied by Exhibitor Relations, with distributor, weekend gross, number of theater screens, average per screen, total gross and number of weeks in release.

1. Pretty Woman, Disney, $7.6 million, 1,794 screens (eight-week total: $101 million)
2. Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, New Line, $3.7 million, 2,267 screens, (seven-week total: $110 million)
3. Tales From the Dark Side, Paramount, $2.9 million, 1,535 screens (two-week total: $9.3 million)
4. The Hunt for Red October, Paramount, $2.2 million, 1,323 screens (11-week total: $105 million)
5. Spaced Invaders, Disney, $2.0 million, 1,776 screens (three-week total: $11.0 million)
6. The Guardian, Universal, $1.8 million, 1,544 screens (three-week total: $12.7 million)
7. Q & A, Tri Star, $1.5 million, 917 screens (three-week total: $7.9 million)
8. Wild Orchid, Epic, $1.2 million, 760 screens (three-week total: $7.2 million)
9. Driving Miss Daisy, Warner Bros., $1.04 million, 914 screens (22-week total: $100 million)
10. Short Time, 20th Century Fox, $1.0 million, 574 screens (two-week total: $2.6 million) to turn the clock back 15 years. In many ways, life has improved.

And "many women lead rewarding lives," says Boylan. "I think very few would want to change places with men."

Women, on average, live longer, and few would want to give up their freedom of emotional expression, which is usually perceived as being greater than a man's, said Deborah Haskell of Newark, Del., who has a doctorate in communications.

The poll found, in fact, that most people believe the women's movement has made it possible for women "to lead satisfying lives." The gains made in the workplace are appreciated.

But the Gallup organization has called the shift in public opinion — the perception that men's lives are better — a "remarkable" change.

In the poll, men are viewed as having more opportunities in the workplace, and women's dissatisfaction with their opportunities is greater now than 15 years ago. The poll also found that people tend to believe the changes in family life have made it harder for couples to be happy.

Something has happened since 1975.

Boylan and De Angelis say the change may have to do with expectations that arose in the '60s and '70s. Because people's consciousness was raised about the need for equality in the workplace — and at home — women expected more change than actually occurred.

Studies have shown that "women work, on average, a full month more than men do," says Boylan. "So there's been a leisure gap. And many women know that. They know men have more leisure time available."

Dear Floretta:-

So sorry you are sick. Hope it isn't serious and you are feeling better by now. We missed you at the Palm Desert Woman's Club luncheon & installation. There was a big turn out. I suppose you have heard about it by now from some one.

Fran Benes report has'nt been in the paper yet.

I'm glad the Club luncheons are over for awhile - Now maybe I'll have time to paint and do some things for myself for a change. I'll have a busy summer if I do half the things I want to do.

How is your gentleman friend. Want to hear more about you two -

Have a happy, healthy summer and keep in touch

250 chronic fatigue cases reported

ATLANTA — Eight months into a study of chronic fatigue syndrome, doctors in four cities have reported 250 possible cases of the mysterious malady to the Centers for Disease Control.

About 350 physicians in Atlanta; Reno, Nev.; Grand Rapids, Mich.; and Wichita, Kan., are cooperating with the CDC, reporting possible cases of chronic fatigue syndrome.

Symptoms include debilitating fatigue, fever, sore throat, muscle weakness and discomfort, headaches and insomnia.

Hitch in voluntary record labeling

WASHINGTON — Record companies could decide on a case-by-case basis whether to label albums with explicit lyrics under a voluntary system soon to be unveiled by the Recording Industry Association of America.

But, even if a company decides to use a warning sticker, the recording artist might be able to squelch the deal, RIAA president Jason Berman said Monday.

"I think it would be very hard for the record company to make that decision without the artist," Berman said at a briefing to discuss the labeling system.

For the first time, record companies will be offered a standard sticker to flag albums with questionable lyrics. The labeling system is expected to be started in the next few weeks.

Foundation widens support Circle

Mayday may signal distress for some — but not for the prestigious President's Circle of the College of the Desert Foundation.

Growing by leaps and bounds, the warm-hearted six-year-old group had many new members to welcome, and many others to reward and honor at its recent dinner at Mission Hills Country Club.

Marilyn and Ray Kaiser hosted the cocktail hour that found COD President David George circled by such standbys as Gerry and Alex Drier, Jean Ann Hirschi, Patricia and Jim Linick, Barbara and Bob Leberman, Ed McCoubrey, Edith Morrey, Coeta and Bob McGowan, Virginia Waring and Marge Potts. Also the Dick Codds, the Bill Powers, Ed Manassah, Marc Glassman, Kay Wayeott and the foundation's luminaries — Ed O'Connell, president, and his wife Kay and Don Seyferth of the President's Circle and his wife Ruth.

The dining included a pleasing osso bucco, followed by awards presented by Seyferth, Dr. George, O'Connell, Walter Reed and others and including life memberships to the Codds, John Marman, the Jim Millers and Jeannie McCormick.

Inez and Bragdon Garrow received special gifts and praise for refurbishing the college gym and swim complex with extraordinary grants. Jeannette Vitkin, too, received special approval for her recruitment of a record-breaking number of new members.

The Circle was the first to be told by President George of the Alumni Association's new pledge to raise a million dollars for the Endowment of Academic Excellence, and to know that Bill Bone, president of the Sunrise Corporation, would be honorary chairman of the drive. Mary Drury, his spokesperson, told of Bone's commitment to this cause.

Others singled out were Carlos Ortega, COD alumnus, and Darlene Romero, director of the Fine Arts division, who presented talented students to round out the evening's entertainment.

Using her well-publicized elan, Marilyn Visel showed off 40 different outfits, all carried into the Lakes Country Club in a single hatbox.

The incredible genius behind this feat is designer Georgiana Jordan who, at 80, looks back on a long career as celebrity designer for screen stars, Mamie Eisenhower and others of the famous, and looks forward to a new custom bridal business in Palm Springs. (She's doing a big June wedding for Ambie Henderson's daughter in La Quinta.)

Her fascinated audience at The Lakes were members and guests of the Palm Desert Women's Club, whose own designers competed in a special hat contest won by Nancy Topolski, Marie Wright, Dolly Hall and Anne Beckwith.

Figuratively taking off their hats to some of the group's 29 past presidents, gifts and applause went to Anne Carpenter, Jackie Guiot, Mary Valdora, Chris Brewer, Ginnie De Fever, Frankie Abel and retiring president Dorothy Kandarian. Jeune Pearson will join the presidential ranks in rites scheduled for May 17 at Marrakesh Country Club.

Taking shelter from Saturday night's high winds were 60 or more of Pat and Rudy DeLateur's desert and hometown friends at The Estates in Indian Wells. They were there to toast the couple poolside, while extending 40th anniversary wishes, and staying on for a lavish dinner. Joining in the socializing were family — Ric, Steven and Elena DeLateur — friends from the Desert Symphony Guild, Panhellenic, French Club, et al., who kept the tempo animated.

Well-wishers included Bill Douglas, Dolores Southern, Jackie and Fran Smith, Cay and Art Leydecker, Ellen Walker, Joe O'Malley, Nancy Eggert, Pat and Al Wiese, June Hunker, Lucien Mandelik, Ruth Kennedy, Jane and Jim Foster, the John Santells and, of course, many others.

CINCO de MAYO — The early California hacienda style home of George and Helen Fry located in the Pasadena foothills, was the setting for the Cinco de Mayo party of the Assistance League of Arcadia. As the colorfully dressed guests arrived at the hacienda they were greeted by Annelie Ackroyd who was in a multi-colored embroidered Mexican skirt and blouse ensemble made of silk organza, and Dot Barge, social chairman, in a colorful long gown. Lil Brandley and Marguerite Towsley created the cactus nametags and Carol Weckerly designed the invitiations.

Jose Ortega, strolling guitarist, provided music throughout the evening and accompanied Peggy Zack when she danced the "Mexican Hat Dance." Peggy used a tall crowned hat of Bob Allen's that he bought in Mazatlan and one of his extensive collection of hats.

Wayne and Joan Anderson, recently returned from a two and a half months vacation in Hawaii, came well tanned and dressed in lovely Mexican costumes they had purchased on a trip to Mexico. Patsy Miller was responsible for the centerpieces at the tables and most everyone was in costume. Three of the girls, Sally Butler, Bernice Harris and Susi McConaghy, wore white Mexican wedding dresses. Many of the men wore Mexican shirts and Bill Beckwith wore a black hat with bobbing red fringe balls.

KICK-OFF TEA — Foothill-Hollywood Bowl Committee members Bernice Harris, Fran Going, Phyllis Tomkins, Barbara Wagner and Marguerite Towsley were among the 300 volunteers from all over Southern California to attend the kick-off tea at the Getty Home in Los Angeles. As their special guest the committee invited Floretta Lauber to accompany them. While she was on the city council, Mrs. Lauber instigated a resolution from the council to the committee for its 20 years of community service.

The Getty home, the official home of Mayor and Mrs. Tom Bradley, was originally the home of John and Dolores Costello. A three-storied English Tudor, it borders Hancock Park and is filled with antique reproductions of Sheraton, Chippendale and Queen Anne periods in soft colors, with beautiful Oriental rugs and colorful floral draperies. The Bradleys live on the second floor and official guest dignitaries on the first floor.

Club honors city dignitaries

ARCADIA'S FIRST LADY — Floretta Lauber (center), Arcadia's first woman mayor, accepts a color portait from Mary Kay Waite, president of the Woman's Club of Arcadia, as James Helms, president of the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce, looks on. THE MAYOR — David Parry, current Arcadia Mayor, had words of praise when he gave Mrs. Lauber the past mayor's badge on Civic Day at the Woman's Club.

By CATHERINE MUNDY

CIVIC DAY — Civic leaders were guests of honor at the Woman's Club of Arcadia at the annual Civic Day observance with Floretta Lauber as chairman. Guests at the head table were Mayor Dave Parry who presented Mrs. Lauber with her past mayor's badge, and mayor pro tem Bob Margett. Others were Gloria Horstman, Board of Education president, and all four board members; Dr. Ed Ryan, superintendent Arcadia schools; Christine Van Maanen, city clerk; Lyle Alberg, city manager; Eva Rothenberger, club parliamentarian; Mary Kay Waite, president; Jim Helms, Chamber of Commerce president and Diamond Jubilee chairman and Mrs. Lauber. Councilman Jack Saelid had a previous "date", he was at Foothills Junior High PTA seeing his wife, Barbara, installed as president.

Mrs. Waite spoke of the pride that the Woman's Club has in its member, Floretta, who was the first woman mayor of Arcadia. She was presented with a full length photograph in color taken of her at the Chamber reception by the "unoffical" city photographer, Ed Castain. Mrs. Lauber said that Civic Day was dedicated to the Diamond Jubilee and that the club will participate in the celebration.

In reminiscing of the club's efforts for civic improvement since it was organized in 1914 by a small group of women, Mrs. Waite said the club is still a vital influence in Arcadia. In those years it was "the only game in town," and nearly all social affairs were given in the clubhouse, even Rotary had their meetings there. The club met in the city hall until the clubhouse was built. The two lots on First Avenue were purchased in 1930 from Anita Baldwin for $1800, and the clubhouse was built by a local contractor for $6,446. Mrs. Lauber is a past president of the club and was chairman for many years of the community improvement committee.

The entrance monuments to the city on Huntington Drive featuring all service clubs, was a two-year project of the committee. The flowering azaleas in downtown Arcadia were planted by the club in honor of the late Margaret Balser, a past president and a former first lady of Arcadia. Mrs. Lauber is chairman of the community coordinating committee for the Jubilee. Her special guest at the luncheon was Jewell High, the city manager's secrectary.

Dear Floretta,

I didn't have your Arcadia address but hopefully this will eventually get to you.

I want to thank you for the delicious board luncheon. It was very thoughtful of you to give it for us. I'm sorry you had not been feeling well and had to come the distance from Arcadia just for the luncheon. It was a "labor of love" and duly appreciated! See you next year. Dorothy Phipps
